

Jessica Carpinelli
Ballet/Jazz/Preschool/Toddler Dance

Jessica Carpinelli began dancing in the San Diego area when she was three years old. She trained exclusively in classical ballet for 10 years before adding jazz, tap, lyrical, and musical theater to her repertoire at Palomar College and other local studios. Miss Jessica has had the opportunity to take master classes around the country with some of the most prominent names in dance. She earned a Bachelor of Economics at San Francisco State and during her time became a teaching apprentice at a local ballet academy. She further developed her passion and talent for teaching children after graduating, taught dance full-time and performed with several Bay Area dance companies. Miss Jessica moved back to San Diego in 2008 and began teaching in San Diego County. She combines her 20 years of teaching experience with her passion and joy for the art of dance. She has developed and implemented curriculums and assessments for her classes. Miss Jessica continues to further develop her knowledge and skills as a member of the National Dance Education Organization, the California Dance Education Association, and the International Association for Dance Medicine & Science. In addition, she is actively pursuing a Certificate in Dance Education through NDEO. Since joining our staff in 2013, Miss Jessica has loved being a part of the NCAD family and looks forward to continuing to educate future dancers.
