

As a well-rounded professional dancer, national award-winning choreographer, educator, mentor, and founder of IMC International, Victoria has worked with many elite dance studios in Southern California. She has worked with prestigious high school and adult musical theatre programs, and served as a director of performing arts education in K-12 settings. Victoria has been featured as a national competition judge on the internationally popularized Lifetime Television Network show, Dance Moms. After having trained in 30+ traditional and cultural dance styles, as well as having lived and worked in New York, San Francisco, and Los Angeles, she currently trains competitive as well as pre-professional dancers for professional careers in the industry as a highly desired resident and guest instructor, coach, and, choreographer in Southern California.